Air and Warship Attacks On Biggest Island in Marianas Enters 13th Consecutive Day

CHINESE BATTLE GRIMLY

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
U. S. battleships moved in close Sunday to speed the reduction of Guam as a strong Japanese base in the western Pacific approaches to Tokyo.
On the 13th consecutive day of air and warship attack on this biggest island in the Marianas group, which also includes conquered Saipan, the big rifles of America's new battlewagons fired from close range on defenses which might hinder landing attempts.
Adm. Chester Nimitz reported yesterday the Sunday bombardment failed to arouse answering fire from the enemy. Destroyers let go ack-ack guns on planes spotting targets for the battleships.
Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men steadily whittled away Japanese sea strength by sinking or damaging four more cargo vessels in the southwest Pacific. The Japs have been slipping.
Chinese forces battled with grim desperation to hold Hengyang. Chungking said, penetrating enemy positions near the important rail city and inflicting heavy losses on another force 34 miles south of Hengyang. The latter Japanese force, which by-passed Hengyang in a grab at control of the Hankow-Canton railway, shows "signs of collapse," Chungking reported.
Japanese trying to rescue an isolated garrison at Pingka, Salween river village near Lungling on the Burma road, were defeated and forced to retreat, the Chinese high command said. The Chinese need Lungling to make possible the reopening of the Burma road.
In monsoon-drenched northern Burma Gen. Stilwell's allied force moved forward another 200 yards. The Japanese, who had been driven into Myitkyna, part of which they have taken from stubborn Japanese defenders.

Doughboys Dig In To Defend Prize St. Lo

By DON WHITEHEAD
St. Lo, France, July 19—(P)—The Germans battered this wrecked city with artillery and mortar shells today as the Doughboys dug into the rubble to defend the prize won after eight days of fighting.
Explosions are crashing from one end of the city to the other and around three sides the Doughboys still are battling Germans caught in the sudden forward surge. St. Lo is the American's but the Yanks still are fighting fanatical parachute troops making a last stand.
St. Lo is deserted except for a few slipping from building to building, dodging into doorways when shells crash, and for troops manning machineguns, bazookas and defensive positions on the approaches to the town.
In a cemetery at the eastern edge of St. Lo, Maj. Glover Johns of Corpus Christi, Tex., had a temporary command post in the crypt of the Blanchet family. Its thick walls protected the men from flying shrapnel as shells burst outside.
About 200 Germans were pocketed on the southeastern side of the city, trying to fight their way out, and Capt. Cecil Harvey of Sewick, Pa., was killed.

156,000 Germans "Written Off" In Drive in Normandy

Main Battle Line Has Passed on Southeast of Fauborg de Vaucelles Into Plains Where Rommel Is Throwing In Tank Forces

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES IN NOYERS AREA

By WES GALLAGHER
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 19—(P)—Heavy German counter-attacks, buttressed by armor, were hurled today across the battle-churned plain below Caen against the smashing British-Canadian offensive which breached Nazi lines and drove five miles southeast of that bastion town on the Paris road.
Supreme headquarters gave no new details on this mammoth engagement, but other British forces struck forward along the center, extending the blazing front to 20 miles.
Americans wiped out pocketed Germans north of fallen St. Lo. The Doughboys made a 2½-mile advance, wrecked 16 Nazi tanks staging a futile counter-attack, and reached the east bank of the Vire river all along this sector. The towns of La Capelle and Grand Hamel were captured.
The British advance toward the center captured Hottot-les-Bagues, long a thorn in the Allied line, 2½ miles southwest of Tilly-sur-Seuilles. They widened a wedge around Noyers on the Caen-Villers Bocage road, and beat back enemy counterattacks at Mallot, between the Orne and Odon rivers.
Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery told a press conference that the Allies had captured 60,000 Germans and buried 8,000 in Normandy, and added:
"It's a reasonable conjecture that we have written off 150,000 Germans."
BULLETIN
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 19—(P)—British forces bursting into the battle-churned open below Caen have smashed the first German counter-attack mounted by picked Nazi tank divisions. It was disclosed tonight, and have driven five miles southeast of that bastion town on the road to Paris. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was throwing in his reserves of his best forces, and a battle of rising fury for high stakes raged over flat terrain.
On the western portion of the Normandy front American units mopped up and occupied strategic St. Lo, cutting off a force of Germans in a salient two and one-half miles deep north of the town. The Yanks also cut the St. Lo-Perriers road between the Taute and Vire rivers south of the village of Amigny, which is in American hands.
The supreme command announced that Montgomery's mopping up troops had cleared half of Four-bocage de Vaucelles of Germans, and said that the main battle line had passed on southeast into the plains beyond, where Rommel was throwing in tank forces in a frantic effort to stem the Allied side of armor and explosives.
Montgomery made no statement concerning specific gains, contenting himself with the announcement that his troops had breached the Germans' Orne defenses. This is the side of the front toward Paris, 120 miles to the east.
Heavy fighting continued in the Noyers area, five miles northeast of Villers-Bocage on the British right flank.
The Americans captured Rampan, 2½ miles northwest of St. Lo on the Vire river.
The Germans showed little ability to cope with the power of the combined air-land thrust.
The offensive, in preparation more than 40 days, was the heaviest in weight of men and armor the Allies have unleashed in Europe. It was a straight power punch.
Allied air forces called in more than 2,200 bombers for the initial explosives wallop directly across the river from Caen.
Thousands of British and Canadian guns laid down a curtain of fire ahead of the advancing tanks. From the sea, the British cruisers Maritus and Enterprise and the monitor Roberts added their salvos.
The curtain of explosives left the Nazi defenders dazed. Many of the prisoners were confused, and shaken so fiercely they were unable to work the bolts on their rifles.
Tanks poured through the "corridor" and raced for the plains beyond where British infantry followed.

Mexican Towns In Path of Volcano

By ALBERT NOEL
Mexico City, July 19—(P)—Millions of tons of molten lava pouring along a 25-mile front from Paricutin, Mexico's new-born volcano, have engulfed two towns and are threatening to wipe out three others.
Paricutin, the town from which the volcano takes its name, and Parangaricutiro, already are buried. The lava is moving 200 yards a day.
Highways leading from the doomed region are crammed with caravans of Tarascan Indians swarming to higher ground with such belongings as they could hastily scrape together.
Nothing is now visible of the town of Paricutin—Tarascan name for San Juan—except the towers and roof of the church, which are expected to fall at any time.

TOKYO PROMISES SOME IMPORTANT NEWS SOON

Later Domei said it had been decided the news should be held up until tomorrow.

Death Toll In Nation's Worst Wartime Explosion Totals 350

By The Associated Press
Port Chicago, Calif., July 19—Reconstruction of the navy's Port Chicago ammunition depot began today as the death toll in the nation's worst wartime explosion approximated 350.
All available construction workers were urged to report to the devastated area where the explosions of two ammunition ships late Monday night shattered the munitions base and the town of 1,500 as well.
The blasts, two seconds apart, shook 14 counties and their earthquake-like effects were felt 80 miles away.
The cause remained undetermined.
An exact count of the dead was difficult because the explosions were so terrific they killed without leaving a trace of identification. Only four bodies had been recovered last night.

Brest Litovsk Defenses Are Crashed By Russian Forces

Captured Nazi General Tells of Antagonism

By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, July 19—(P)—The Russian press published today a statement by Gen. Edmund Hofmeister, captured commander of the 41st German tank corps, declaring a disagreement among Hitler's generals over strategy on the eastern front was costing a great toll of lives and prisoners.
The captured general's statement, as published in Soviet newspapers, criticized Hitler's insistence on holding ground and refusing to retreat unless bludgeoned from positions.
The captive said there was considerable antagonism between old and younger commanders, but that the veterans were keeping silent and carrying out orders because Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, had announced that any criticism would be punished by death.
Hofmeister asserted that Hitler, to affirm his strategy, recently called a conference of generals and admirals and that he attended.
"His (Hitler's) face was swollen, his voice was low and he got mixed up in his speech," the statement said.

War Mobilization Director In Letter to Chairman Hannegan Withdraws From Race

DOUGLAS CROWD QUIET

By JACK BELL
Chicago Stadium, July 19—(P)—President Roosevelt was reported authoritatively to have listed Senator Harry Truman of Missouri and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as his second and third choices for the vice presidential nomination at the Democratic convention opening today.
Word of the president's choices—previously had endorsed Vice President Henry A. Wallace as his No. 1 selection—spread rapidly among delegates as they filtered into Chicago's huge stadium for the convention's first session.

President To Address Convention By Radio

Chicago, July 19—(P)—President Roosevelt is expected to address the Democratic convention by radio tomorrow, Democratic headquarters announced today.
Mr. Roosevelt's address presumably will be in the nature of an acceptance speech since the convention schedule calls for his nomination for a fourth term tomorrow afternoon.

Those in a position to know said that a communication from the president to National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan led to the action of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes in directing earlier in the day that his name not be placed in nomination for second place.
Byrnes wrote Senator Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina that "in deference to the wishes of the president," he was not a candidate. Previously he had been one of the leading contenders for a second term.

Racial Issue Is Still Unsettled

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Chicago, July 19—(P)—A tense behind-the-scenes struggle over the racial issue bedeviled Democratic platform drafters today as they drove public hearings toward a close with a forum on foreign policy.
The platform group arranged to hear upwards of a score of post-war peace declarations from a variety of sponsors but gave every private indication that the final choice for a foreign plank already is settled on and that it has Secretary of State Cordell Hull's approval and presumably that of the president.
This is a proposal of approximately 300 words prepared by Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee which reportedly calls for the use of force to prevent aggression and keep the peace.

Wallace Arrives To Take Personal Charge

Chicago, July 19—(P)—Vice President Wallace arrived today to take personal charge of his campaign for re-nomination by the Democrats.
Told when he stepped from the train that War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes had taken himself out of the vice-presidential race, Wallace remarked:
"Well, that takes care of that."
Refusing to say what he thought his own chances were, Wallace added, "I'm just out here as chairman of the Iowa delegation."
"Do you think the Byrnes withdrawal makes your chances better?" he was asked.
"I'm just a delegate," he replied.
Wallace appeared smiling and chipper.

Robot Attack Over England Hits New Peak

By The Associated Press
London, July 19—London and southern England were targets of the greatest 24-hour robot bomb attack last night and today since the German weapon first was loosed June 15.
Gen. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters interpreted the attack as an effort to divert the mighty pace of Allied air power which has been stunning German troops across the channel with an unprecedented deluge of bombs.
The number of flying bombs, launched from the Calais coast of France, increased noticeably with the start of the British offensive below Caen and it was apparent that the German command had decided to strike the civilian population of England in a gamble to pull away some of the 7,350 planes.

Veranda Huddles Held By Dewey

By CHARLES H. PALMER
Albany, N. Y., July 19—(P)—The pattern of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's "front veranda" summer campaign to seat himself in the White House appeared today to hinge on party organization.
Observers of the Republican presidential nominee's political methods said it had become apparent the 42-year-old governor was laying the foundation of his election drive on the time-tested formula of state and local party teamwork.
They based their conclusions on Dewey's almost uninterrupted post-convention series of huddles with GOP congressional leaders. These parleys, held at the executive mansion—frequently on the front veranda—began with the visit of the Massachusetts governor, Leverett Saltonstall and Republican congressmen from the bay state. There came to Albany in quick succession party delegations from Vermont, Maine and Connecticut.
The latest of the congressional visitors, Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R-N.Y.), talked it over with the governor at and after dinner last night.

Lo., July 18—(Delayed)—(P)—"Flying jeeps" dropped supplies and blood plasma this morning to two forward American infantry units temporarily cut off by the Germans east of this city. Shortly afterward a column of doughboys broke through and relieved their comrades.

New York, July 19—The British radio, in a broadcast reported by U. S. government monitors, quoted Stockholm reports today as saying "that the Germans have tried to contact the Russian government for the conclusion of a separate peace." The broadcast said the attempt failed completely.

Chicago, July 19—(P)—John F. Nolan, 53, Ohio delegate at large to the Democratic convention, died early today in the Waltham Memorial Hospital of burns and shock, suffered when he stepped into a bath tub of scalding hot water in his room at the Lasalle hotel.

SEAPORT OF LIVORNO FALLS TO AMERICANS

Gen. Mark Clark Executes Wide Pincers Movement To Force Enemy From Vital Town

CITY IS UNDEFENDED

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Rome, July 19—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army captured Livorno today, executing a wide pincers movement which forced the Germans from this largest seaport in Italy a few hours after Polish troops seized Ancona, important port on the Adriatic.
Livorno lies only a few miles from Pisa, Western anchor of the net German defense line.

No effort to defend the city street by street was made by the German troops, who previously had restored to every military device in their efforts to dodge and delay the American advance.
More than 2,000 prisoners and large quantities of war materials were taken by the Polish troops, who today were pursuing the retreating enemy relentlessly northward.

The fall of Ancona came after a 75-mile advance against stubborn resistance offered by two German divisions which finally were forced to retire when the Poles smashed through their lines west of the city.
On the opposite end of the Italian front, meanwhile, American Fifth Army troops battled their way nearer Livorno, winning positions on the slopes of Monte Della Faggia—only three miles from the very center of the port after fierce fighting.

Associated Press Correspondent Sid Feder, at the front with the American troops, said in a field dispatch that it appeared likely Livorno might fall within 24 hours.
In the central sector of the front, British troops of the Fifth Army made new gains west of Arezzo, sweeping across the Arno river on a front of six miles. An Allied communiqué, said the British seized the town of Monteverchi, 15 miles west of Arezzo.
The capture of Ancona, a city with a normal population of almost 100,000, was the greatest success recorded by Polish troops since they stormed almost impregnable German positions at Monte Cassino abbey at the start of the Rome offensive.

Capital Publisher Opposes Roosevelt

Harrisburg, July 19—(P)—The Harrisburg Patriot and the Evening News, two papers published by Vance C. McCormick, who as chairman of the National Democratic Committee in 1916 helped to re-elect Woodrow Wilson for a second term during World War one, said in an editorial today that they cannot support President Roosevelt for a fourth term.
The editorial states that four years ago the papers could not support Roosevelt for a third term and "clearly cannot sanction the greater violence to American tradition in a fourth term."
The editorial concludes with:
"Should Mr. Roosevelt, by death or any other reason be unable to serve, does any American in his or her right senses think that Generals Marshall, Eisenhower, and MacArthur, Admiral King, General Arnold, their staffs and subordinate officers clear down to the lowest private could not and would not win this war with a satisfactory peace to follow?"

BRADFORD STRIKERS DISCUSS SITUATION

Bradford, July 19—(P)—After hearing back-to-work appeals by army and navy conciliators, 1,100 striking employees of the Dresser Manufacturing Co., and its affiliate, the Bowland & Seyfang Co., met today to discuss ending their two-day walkout.
The strikers, working on amphibious landing craft parts, shells and Diesel engines, left their jobs Monday because of dissatisfaction over a Regional War Labor Board directive regarding pay increase demands.

Warren Boys Leave To Help Pick Cherries

Sunday at 2:00 p. m., 21 boys and their supervisor left by special bus for Harbor Creek where they will join an army of 150 other boys for picking of cherries. These boys were recruited by the Emergency Farm Labor office due to the alarming situation of getting the cherries harvested.

The director of the camp where they are going is L. O. Eisenhauer, of Sheffield, and their supervisor for the 23 boys is W. E. Bouton, a discharged soldier, formerly from Warren. This group of boys is housed in the dormitory of the Harbor Creek High School, where they have the facilities of the high school cafeteria and the camp kitchen.

There are five of these camps in the North East district and from all reports received by C. C. Winans, emergency farm labor assistant, the farmers are very much satisfied with the results obtained from these pickers.

Book Club Is Organized at Public Library

The Young People's Book Club was organized last evening at the public library. It may be necessary to divide the club in two sections because of the number of boys and girls who have signed up. But anyone who is interested is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Huff, head of the advisory department, before the next meeting on August first.

The young people who met for organization last night decided to have a rotating chairmanship, in order that the responsibility and experience would be better distributed. Barbara Coe was elected as permanent secretary for the year. The membership will be equally divided between boys and girls and includes those in the junior and senior classes and those who graduated in June.

An interesting program has been blocked out. All those present were given a share in the first program meeting on August 1st. The young people have already started their reading preparatory to the discussion.

NEW BRICK FRONT
Workmen are placing a new yellow brick front on the remodelled Lewis delicatessen building in the East Side business section, one of the final touches toward making it a most attractive shopping point.

EXPRESSMEN BUSY
Employees of the Railway Express Company are about as busy as the proverbial beaver and the shipments from the Warren office are heavy. One of the big users of the express service now is the Deluxe Metal Furniture Company which is averaging about 1800 pounds each evening of tool boxes shipped to the West Coast.

NEW PERIOD OPENS
Tomorrow a new period will open at Camp Cornplanter, Dunkles Corners which is being operated by the Salvation Army. One period will be closed this evening and a new group will move into the camp. The campers come from over a wide area and while recreation is the main object much is done to further the work of the Army among the groups in camp.

HAULING MANY LOGS
Not in many years has there been so much hauling done from the woods of the county into this city. Cutting of logs is going forward in the woods of the county and many of them are being hauled to sawmills while others are being loaded on cars here and being shipped. Wood is an essential to win the war and the demand is now greater than the supply.

INDUSTRIAL TOUR
Thirty "Y" boys enjoyed an educational tour through the plant of the Warren Baking company yesterday, under the leadership of Y. M. C. A. Secretary Ralph Wagner. These boys are now much better informed about the art of making good bread and cake. Not the least enjoyable part of the event was the treat of generously iced cakes given them by the management. Upon return to the "Y" the group were refreshed by a swim in the pool.

CAR IN DITCH
A Ford automobile was reported in a ditch at Carver and Jackson street last night and police investigated. FURNITURE SHORTAGE
Local furniture manufacturers have learned from the Chicago Furniture Show that during this fall and winter there will be a real shortage in furniture. Manufacturers have not been producing any great amount and what wholesalers have on hand is being apportioned to old customers. From all indications the furniture makers will have a real period of prosperity ahead of them to relieve the shortage if they can secure help.

Firemen Are Being Drilled On Equipment

Fire Chief Albaugh during the past few weeks has been giving the men of the department intensive drills in the handling of the apparatus in the department. It is his aim to have every man in the department thoroughly trained in the driving and handling of all apparatus. The fact that the department has a number of green men is causing the chief to take this step in an effort to get the firemen all familiar with all of the pieces of apparatus and the equipment on the trucks.

During the past few days several of the pumpers and the high pressure truck have been taken to the island and the men put to work on them. Yesterday the crews were at work near the mill race at the bus barns and some intensive work was done. Captain Minter is giving some of the instruction and it is planned to keep the crews busy every day on some form of work that will make them better firemen.

Big Cribbing Project Ahead On River Road

The river road through Pleasant township to Glade Run is getting plenty of attention from the State Highway employees here. The road has developed a tendency to slide and several slides have taken place. One of them last spring was of large size and trucks of the department spent several days hauling away the earth and debris that came down. Due to the placing of the road above the railroad tracks the earth could not be shoveled over the hill but had to be hauled away.

The matter of placing cribbing along the road to hold the earth from sliding has been under discussion for some time but as yet no decision has been reached due to the cost. There are about 900 feet where the cribbing is considered to be necessary and to place this cribbing would require a large amount of material and the use of many men. The problem of manpower is one that is bothering the department in figuring on the job.

Quota Over Top at Blood Bank Monday

The visit of the blood bank unit to this city on Monday was satisfactory in more ways than one. The number of donors exceeded the quota set for the visit and only three failed to keep their appointment but it is presumed that they made an effort to do so. This is exceptional. There were 208 who called to give blood and of this number 34 were rejected, thus 174 pints of blood were given. The quota set for the visit was 167.

At Sheffield yesterday that town really set a record as there were 28 rejections and 141 persons gave a pint of blood.

In Warren on Monday Miss Alice Duntley, of Corydon gave her blood for the ninth time. Eight donations were made in New York City.

DEATH GRIP TIGHTENS ON HITLER

Dwight MacKenzie, Associated Press War Analyst

The Allied two-front vise is tightening its death-grip on Hitler in a big way, with the new and devastating offensives launched simultaneously in the eastern theatre and in Normandy.

Berlin itself admits that this is the show-down. A government-controlled Nazi commentator viewing this fresh onslaught, declared that the war would be decided in less than three months.

The powerful Allied offensive in Normandy may be the beginning of our major effort to break out of the peninsula onto the open road to Paris. The British and Canadians have achieved a notable gain by smashing the Nazi defenses in the strategic Caen sector—gateway to the Hinterland. And the Americans have added another fine contribution by the capture of St. Lo at the other end of the flaming battleline.

Again air power has blazed the way. The Normandy offensive was preceded by a terrific aerial bombardment by more than 2,000 warplanes. Significant indeed is the fact that there was no opposition from German planes.

Over on the Russian front the Red armies have swelled their already furious offensive to a scale which is likely to precipitate the grand crisis of the Russo-German war.

This is the grimly precarious position of Hitler's armies. But we shouldn't mistake this danger of disaster as the actuality of defeat. The Germans are expected to offer fierce resistance, for they are defending the shields to the Reich itself. The Russians have no delusions on this point, and the Moscow newspaper Izvestia in speaking of the battle for East Prussia—the first German soil to come under the attack of infantry—declares that "vigorous battles will take place at the approaches."

WAR COSTS MONEY

An item in a clippingsheet issued by the National Grange Publicity Bureau contains the following interesting information regarding the mounting costs of the global war:

At the close of the fiscal year on June 30th, the United States Treasury issued a report showing that our cost of fighting this global war and getting ready for it has cost the nation since July 1, 1940, $200,000,000,000 in round figures, or nearly $140,500,000 a day. The cost of our war activities during the fiscal year ending June 30 amounted to $89,721,000,000.

These outlays and the interest on the war debt account for more than 95 per cent of the "unprecedented" total expenditures during the year. $93,744,000,000. The total was $15,565,000,000 more than in the fiscal year of 1943.

While spending increased, the government's income also went up. Treasury receipts amounted to $44,149,000,000, or nearly double the $22,282,000,000 taken in during the fiscal year of 1943.

Notwithstanding this huge "take," the Treasury sustained a deficit of $49,595,000,000 during the year. The national debt, including obligations guaranteed by the government amounted to $202,625,456,529 on June 30.

SPELL IT OUT

"Spell it out" is a rule that will pay dividends in addressing mail to members of the armed forces.

Spell out full names instead of using initials.

Spell out numbers. If you're writing to Marmaduke Cholomondeley Brown, spell it out that way. Don't make it M. C. Brown. If Brown's address contains a Navy number write it: "Navy No. 123 (One Two Three)," spelling out the figures as you do in writing a check.

If you think your mail to persons in the armed services isn't being delivered as quickly as it should, remember that overseas mail has reached a total of 25,000,000 pieces a week and approximately 3,000,000 pieces each week have incomplete or erroneous addresses. Get yours right whenever you write.

Blood bank donors came through in a big way in Warren and Sheffield Monday and Tuesday. Most credit for the success of the visit of the unit is due to the excellent organization work of those in charge.

Teaching An Old Bird New Tricks

"WAKE UP, AMERICA!"

Will We Eradicate Industrial Japan?

James R. Young
Author of "Behind The Rising Sun" and "Manchurian Express"

As debated by

John Goette
INS War Correspondent; Author of "Japan Fights For Asia"

MR. YOUNG OPENS: The late Raymond Clapper, in his last message filed from the Southwest Pacific, had completed a survey of American soldiers, all of whom agreed that "Japan should not be permitted to become a world power again." I underwrite that statement vigorously. I would remove every nut and bolt; destroy any two eggs or wheels which work; strip all heavy industries; limit the merchant marine to wooden vessels of 500 tons and leave the Japs with rice fields and fishing nets. The Commission on a Just and Durable Peace, headed by John Foster Dulles, a New York lawyer who is reportedly Governor Dewey's foreign policy adviser, in a statement just released, says "the world stands to gain and not lose from an economically stable and prosperous Japan . . . Japan must be disarmed . . . however, care should be taken (to) not unduly cripple basic peacetime industries . . . moreover, disarmament of Japan should not be made a permanent unilateral arrangement." I propose prohibiting any heavy or light industries, all armaments or commerce outside her own provincial borders. In the past, Japan violated economic and international treaties, fisheries agreements, opium and customs tariffs. Japan employed ruthless monetary operations and slave labor. For a lasting peace, never let Japan rise again, commercially, militarily, diplomatically.

MR. GOETTE CHALLENGES: Mr. Young proves my contention that responsible Americans concur we will profit from a non-militaristic, stable Japan. November elections might elevate Mr. Dulles to be foreign policy adviser to our new President or they will retain Mr. Wallace who agrees with Mr. Dulles on post-war Japan. In either case, Mr. Young's emotionalism fails in creating our future policy. Mr. Young rejects traditional American policy when he would lock Japan inside her islands. Washington sent Commodore Perry in 1854 to force Japan at the point of our guns out of just such isolation. We deliberately created industrial Japan. We cannot escape our responsibility by going backwards.

MR. YOUNG REPLIES: Our greatest diplomatic and military burden was the Commodore Perry mission to Japan. "We deliberately created industrial Japan" we must henceforth crush an industrial Japan. Let us collaborate economically with China, the Philippines, Manchuria, Korea and Formosa. Mr. Dulles represents the shameful international interests who would renew economic collaboration with their Japanese partners. Mr. Wallace is not speaking, or himself, but I suspect for certain ambitious, misguided professors and diplomats. Why not lock Japan inside her islands? Our traditional good-neighbor and hands-across-the-sea policy cannot apply to Japan—ever!

MR. GOETTE OPENS: Thoughtful America says No! American loud-speakers on Saipan told Japanese they fought as any soldier of the Emperor should—now "surrender to serve your country when war is over." This is an implicit promise: a decently secure Japanese economy will be encouraged by the Allies. Vice-President Wallace foresees a Japan not "in perpetual subjugation" but rather as an "Asiatic Sweden" eschewing military power but working for "self-sufficient food production, for high technological skill and for trade in competitive markets based on high quality rather than cheapness." Thought, not emotion, thus governs American planning. There is almost 100% agreement our people will not support the impossible programme of completely renovating political, social, educational, economic and industrial Japan. In her devastating defeat, Japan's armament production will automatically be bombed out. Thinking America sees the futility of trying to turn back the clock on reasonable economic and industrial growth in Japan. Sound economic considerations, not emotional alarm, dominate our policy. Proof of this: Free China after 8 years of war permits and encourages importation of goods from Japanese occupied areas. Free China's customs tariffs were especially reduced on piece goods, chemicals, dyes and medicines, much of this made in wartime Japan. All practical United Nations planners agree that peace in the Pacific rests upon a non-aggressive but economically stable Japan.

MR. YOUNG CHALLENGES: Someone has provided Mr. Wallace with misinformation. Mr. Goette too does not realize the basic success of Japan in competitive markets is cheapness, not quality; borrowed technical knowledge, not originality. An "Asiatic Sweden" Sweden must be condemned for her status of belligerent neutrality, supplying the Axis with steel for war plants. Shall we repeat this tragic farce and permit dual military diplomacy by allowing Japan to follow an "Asiatic Swedish" pattern in a Pacific post-war era? Free China buys from Japan because (1) we cannot or do not supply them; (2) they buy with tongue in cheek until they can drive out the Japs. No Japanese could honestly say Japan would be faithful in world economic collaboration.

MR. GOETTE REPLIES: Japan's ability to produce cheaply with resulting trade barriers helped cause this war. Remediably, American planners would encourage Japan's switching to fairer competition with quality, not cheapness. That's the future; whereas Mr. Young only looks backward. Sweden rightly or wrongly does what we did with scrap iron and oil sold to Japan. No Chinese demands an industrially crushed Japan; no Chinese imagines China not buying from post-war Japan. That's inevitable. Wars end and peace treaties must be made. If no Japanese can honestly pledge Japan's collaboration, our future is hopeless. America's planners cannot accept such defeatism as Mr. Young's.

Interesting Items Taken From The Warren Evening Times

Pouring of cement has been started on the Warren-Sheffield road. The J. C. Devine Company has made excellent time on their portion of the contract and a large section, perhaps all of the road from Sheffield to Weldbank may be in use this winter.

The Forest Chemical Company has installed a new gasoline service station adjoining the McNeal property at Barnes. The station is a neat one and its use will be appreciated by the people of that section.

The Presbyterian church and Sunday school of North Warren's Presbyterian church enjoyed a picnic yesterday at Ferncliff. There was a big crowd and the day was a happy one.

The street market this morning was well attended by farmers and there was a brisk business done as many customers were out. Eggs sold at 35 cents; chickens at 35c; cucumbers two for 25c; strawberries 16 cents and sweet cherries 25 cents.

Two new switches have been installed by the P. R. R. at Youngsville and will be put to use in unloading materials and machinery to be used on the new road construction in that vicinity.

Warren county's quota for the CCC camps during the next period has been placed at 36. That many young men will be signed up ready to move on orders.

Sheriff R. L. Ritchie is in Pittsburgh attending the annual convention of the Pennsylvania sheriff's.

Traffic through Warren is at its peak for the summer season and it is doubtful if ever there were so many cars rolling through the town as during this week. All tourist cabins in this section are filled every night as are all hotels.

July 31 to August 2 the annual conference of school superintendents of the state will be in session at State College. Most of the school heads of the county schools will attend.

Under the new regulations prisoners in the county jail can be put to work on the roads. Street Commissioner Larson put six at work this morning. One refused work and was sent to the Allegheny county work house for six months. He will not refuse to work there.

Astronomers have discovered a new star weighing 100 times as much as the sun.

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — In the race for President, the horses won't start running until they hit the home stretch.

In spite of the fact that the GOP nominee, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, was holding almost daily press conferences in Albany, politicians here couldn't conceive that he would launch an aggressive, nation-wide speaking tour such as Wendell L. Willkie conducted four years ago.

The reasons are:

1. The results of the November election will depend much on the course of events in the war and at home between now and then. It would be political folly for Dewey to climb out on any limbs that might be saved off by the rapidly changing fortunes of war.

2. Dewey's primary objective is to cement the Republican party into a solid phalanx. He can't do this merely by tossing block-busters at the opposition. In Chicago there was a period when the Dewey board of strategy was worried. The "conservatives" in the party, it appeared, had delegate favor, if not delegate votes. Remembering 1940, they decided that something had to be done. That something was to bring Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio into the Dewey camp as vice-presidential nominee.

The next step must be to heal the breach between the "conservative" and "liberal" wings. Dewey already has started conferences with down-east GOP candidates for the House of Representatives. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is going to visit him. If he can consolidate his support with such conservatives as Vandenberg, Sen. Robert A. Taft, former President Herbert Hoover and such liberals as Willkie, to mention the extreme, there will be time then to worry about cutting into the Democratic ranks with a vigorous speaking campaign.

3. The fact that we are in the midst of a bloody global war militates against any political fan-dangoes this year. For either Dewey or President Roosevelt to take the stump almost certainly would result in repercussions from the voting public. Every politician I have talked to feels that the only way the campaigns can be conducted this year will be quiet, dignified "front porch" campaigns, with perhaps a whirlwind finish when the issues are clear and the last chips are down.

As for President Roosevelt, he occupies a unique situation! He speaks not only as a candidate but as President of the United States.

HOLLYWOOD—Henry Willson hears a nice title—"Assistant to David O. Selznick"—but he mainly is an old abandoned crowd-searcher. He has been searching crowds for the last ten of his 31 years, and it's habitual by now.

"Just look for faces that stand out," he says. "I can't help it. Anywhere I go."

Though he is not a talent scout, such faces as register on his roving eye generally get to Selznick's, and quite a few get to pictures. But if you want your own stand-out face to hit him, don't frame it in the usual showcase, the little theaters. Take it down, take it eating, take it bowling, take it to a soda fountain where, perhaps between drags on your double-malted, the Willson lightning will strike. It won't strike like lightning, however. A slight, dark-haired, unassuming chap will hand you his card, and that's it.

HENRY'S crowd-searching career began, though he didn't realize it then, in his native Forest Hills, Long Island, when he was trying to be a writer. His zeal unquenched when he saw a paper out his first masterpiece to two lines, he was soon writing dramatic criticisms, and by the time he was 21 he was Hollywood-bound.

I met him soon after. He was an agent. He had a bare little office and when anyone came in, he shuffled papers on his desk like mad, putting on the act. He had one client, maybe two if you counted Dawn O'Day, a child actress. The one client was Junior Durkin, his friend, who that week-end was killed in an auto accident.

But soon Henry Willson became the agent, official or unofficial, of most of the town's young talent. Dawn O'Day became today's Anne Shirley. Henry went to work for Agent Zappo Marx, and met a client called Judy Turner. She was 15, worked in a lingerie shop after school. To Henry fell the job of taking her to studios—fruitlessly, for eight months. For one audition, Judy had to tap-dance. Henry taught her, to the piano accompaniment of a then unknown, Mickey Rooney. Mayvyn LeRoy finally gave her a part. You know her as Lana Turner.

HE SAW Jim Brown in a crowd at a tennis match, finally talked Howard Hawks into trying him for "Air Force," which did the trick. Brown is with Crosby in "Going My Way," has a starring role ahead in "The Virginian."

At the beginning of his crowd-searching career Henry spotted a beautiful stand-out blonde in a theater lobby, handed her his card.

"It was Jean Harlow, already a star," he says. "That set me back a year."

Macie I. Flower Was Lovable In School Room

When they were passing out names for the school buildings of Warren the school board certainly overlooked naming one for Macie I. Flower who as a teacher in old No. 8, Central Building endeared herself to hundreds in Warren. Miss Flower was one of those women endowed by nature with plenty of patience, an understanding heart and the gift of drawing out the best of those with whom she came in contact.

Back in old No. 8 she had about 50 (and the writer can remember well) of the most cantankerous little devils that ever faced a school mistress. And Miss Flower subdued that gang with love and understanding and at the end of the school term sent out a group of which any teacher might feel proud.

Miss Flower for a number of years has been a guest at the Watson Home and her condition today is aggravated by the ravages of time but she still has the ability to smile that smile that all of "her boys and girls" remember well and which sort of causes a tugging at the heart strings of her former pupils.

And to this lovable old lady let us present a whole big bunch of orchids for giving to the memory of any recollections of pleasant hours in a school room where understanding was the basis of discipline.

Supervisors For Evening Need In Playground Program Locally

Questioning concerning curtailment of the newly authorized evening program of supervised recreation for the task and volunteers among older girls and young women are all that is necessary for reinstatement of the full schedule.

Another fact brought out is that older lads have been making things difficult for the girls assigned as supervisors, interfering with their efforts and taking their time from the children they were asked to look after.

This problem could be readily solved, it is stated, if some of the volunteers were older men capable of handling the troublemakers.

The children have proved their need of such a program by their splendid attendance during the trial month of June and success of the summer evening program seems to lie in the hands of adults sufficiently interested in the youngsters to volunteer one or two evenings each week to carrying on the full time schedule.

Any person interested in such activity and willing to volunteer as a paid supervisor is asked to communicate with Henry Kolpin, playground area supervisor. Mr. Kolpin will be at Beatty playground this evening, Thursday and Friday evenings from seven until eight o'clock to interview applicants willing to serve two evenings a week, either voluntarily or as paid supervisors.

Medicos Hear Discussion Of Diseases That May Follow War

Because of the fact that our armies are fighting on soil of many foreign countries, we may expect to see many types of diseases brought to us by returning troops, according to Major Charles H. Drenkhahn, of Dreshon Army Hospital at Butler.

Speaking here Tuesday at the monthly meeting of Warren County Medical Society, held at the YWCA activities building, the army official stated that two forms of such diseases are especially prevalent, malaria and dysentery. He described these in detail and outlined present forms of treatment.

He said that in Italy our army encountered typhus, also, but through an intensive treatment, use of vaccine, etc., this disease had its mortality greatly reduced. Malaria, however, can be fatal and in the past has caused more deaths than all other diseases put together. Major Drenkhahn pointed out that we may expect about one in eight or our returning soldiers to be infected with this disease, but when it is promptly recognized and active treatment instituted with quinine and its substitutes, the symptoms may be overcome.

Also brought out by the speaker was the fact that amebic dysentery is the important disease which attacks troops in Asiatic countries, proved by the fact that in the Spanish-American War it was the cause of many fatalities. While a milder form is present in many millions of our own population, Dr. Drenkhahn stressed the fact that it may become epidemic if transplanted from the tropics, but, fortunately, some new drugs have been very successful in treatment of the disease.

The talk proved a very interesting one and served to prove that disease may lose wars and destroy civilization as surely as gunpowder and dynamite.

There were 22 members present at the dinner which followed, with Doctors R. L. Young, E. S. Africa, E. R. Anderson, M. B. Ball and William L. Ball as hosts.

Correspondent Describes Handling Casualty Reports

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, July 19—(AP)—Once an hour, sixteen times a day, a locked dispatch is carried into a rambling, stuccoed war department building on Constitution avenue. The pouch contains the raw material of heartbreak and of hope—Casualty reports from the nation's fighting forces.

Armed couriers hand the pouches over to specialists who decode and classify the information. Not all the news is bad; some of the messages report that wounded men are recovering, that missing soldiers have rejoined their outfits.

But there is grief enough in the sacks, and the faces of the men and women who work in the casualty branch of the adjutant general's office reflect the graveness of their responsibility.

"Every piece of paper we touch is a heartbreak for someone," observed Col. George F. Herbert, head of the casualty branch.

Nearly 10,000 telegrams and 8,000 letters go out from the office every week. Ten telephone operators are kept busy handling calls from anxious mothers, fathers and wives.

In case of death, the telegram is followed by a sympathetic, individually written letter—not a form—relating the known circumstances.

Correspondent Writes Grim Story on "Cave of Horrors"

(The following story, distributed by the Associated Press, was written by Serg. David Dempsey, 74 West 12th St., New York City, a Marine corps combat correspondent.)

Saipan, Marianas Islands (Delayed)—Marines have named it the "cave of horrors" for the hundreds of caves on this island, one has produced a story as grim as this one.

In a secluded spot in a canyon well behind our own lines two Marines passing by heard Japanese voices. They listened, decided the voices were coming from a cave, and crept as close as they could to the top of the cliff where the cave was located.

One of the Marines peered over the cliff's edge to find a Japanese soldier staring up at him. He heard the click of a rifle bolt and pulled back quickly. The Marines went back for help.

Second Lieut. Charles T. Cross, 15, Minneapolis, returned with 16 men. Second Lieut. Cross is a Japanese interpreter who hoped to talk the Japanese into surrendering.

As the men approached the cave, they could hear the crying of babies and the moaning of women.

By removing a large slab of stone on top of the cliff the Marines could see down into the cave. Women, children, old men, and soldiers were huddled together in mixed postures of fear and defiance.

An old man looked up at them pitifully. "Mizu," he groaned, "mizu... mizu..." (water... water...)

Cross told him to send a child out and that water would be supplied.

Then some of the Marines went to the mouth of the cave and waited. The child did not come. Finally, Cross approached the entrance. He shouted to the people in Japanese, promising them that they would be given food, water, and medical treatment if they came out. One at a time with their arms in the air.

The Marines waited, but no one came. The sound of the old man groaning mizu... mizu... was all they heard.

Cross crawled closer and spoke to them again. Suddenly he heard the sound of hand grenades clicking as the pins were knocked out against the rocky walls of the cave. Cross jumped back just in time as the grenades began to explode in the cave.

Jap soldiers were committing suicide, killing and wounding their own people as they did so.

The Marines waited in awe-struck horror. From inside the cave came a pitiful chorus of wailing babies and the screams of women and old men. For an hour Cross lay near the mouth of the cave, pleading with the Japanese to come out. Occasionally, there would be movement inside the dim tunnel, as though someone were struggling to crawl out. Invariably, it was followed by a rifle shot, and silence.

Japanese soldiers commanded the mouth of the cave. It opened on a very narrow ledge. Not more than three or four Marines could get near it at once. To attempt to enter the cave would mean certain death. All the Marines could do was wait—and plead.

They waited four hours—"four of the longest hours of my life," Cross said. "During that time more grenade explosions, more rifle shots. The groaning and wailing inside increased. The old man kept crying for water."

It was clear that the Jap soldiers would never surrender and that they did not intend to let the civilians leave the cave alive.

Finally, there was silence. The explosions and the screams had stopped. Marines, still wary of going directly into the cave, crawled back to the top of the cliff and lifted the stone slab.

Four of them were lowered 15 feet to the floor of the cave. What they saw will go down in their memories as the most gruesome of all sights in war. The bodies of men and women and children were blown apart and lay splattered against the walls of the tunnel.

The soldiers had disemboweled themselves with grenades. The bodies of 60 Japanese—ten of them soldiers—had literally been blown together.

There were four survivors: Two girls, 8 and 12, whose throats had been slit; a baby whose face had been cut by grenade fragments, a young boy who had been overcome by the concussion.

Arne Anderson Sets a New World Record For the Mile

Stockholm, July 18—(AP)—Arne Anderson, the flying Swedish school teacher, ran a world record mile of 4:01.6 yesterday, an indication that the much elusive four-minute mile is just around the corner.

In clipping a full second off the world standing of 4:02.6 that he set a year ago, July 1, Anderson beat his more famous countryman, Gunder Haegg, by two meters. Haegg was timed in 4:02. His fastest speed for the distance.

Anderson's 4:01.6 mile was the latest development in the running of the event that has become a monopoly for him and Haegg. They have shattered the mark four times in the last two years, cutting nearly five seconds off the 4:06.4 turned in by Sidney Wooderson of England, in 1937.

"I cannot imagine anyone running the mile in four minutes or less during this or the next few years," Anderson declared a year ago after his 4:02.6 feat.

Browns Rout Yank Hoodoo To Take 3-Game Lead In League

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The "Yankee hoodoo" that is supposed to haunt the St. Louis Browns vanished in thin air today as Luke Sewell's leaders took charge of the American League pennant race with a 3-game working margin.

Opening a long home stand and a vital 4-game series, the Browns blasted Elmer Roser and Johnny Johnson for an 8-0 edge while Bob Munroe worked his shutout charm for the third time, the second against the Yankees.

Although Vern Stephens, the R. B. I. king of the loop was out of the lineup, the pennant-starved Browns uncorked a home run punch from Milt Byrne, Gene Moore and Chet Laabs in a 12-hit total for their fourth triumph over New York in 11 starts.

Boston maintained its mastery over Chicago, notching an 11th straight at the White Sox's expense on a 4-2 edge in 11 innings. Gordy Maltzberger, leading pitcher in the league, had a 6-game relief win streak snapped as Tex Hugenberger picked up win No. 14.

Jimmy Outlaw's single scored Joe Hoover from second base with the big run as Detroit took a 6-5 nod over Washington in an 11-frame twilight contest. Hal Newhouser gained his 14th triumph in relief at Al Carrasquel's expense.

Al Smith stopped a 9th inning Philadelphia rally one run short and held on to pitch Cleveland to a 4-3 margin over the A's Don Black was Connie Mack's loser although First Sacker Bill McGhee did his best with four hits for a losing cause.

St. Louis's more secure first place tenant, the Cardinals, had little trouble in silencing Brooklyn, 5-0, in one of two games played in Ford Frick's circuit.

Max Lanier turned back the Dodgers with four hits but two were off the bat of Dixie Walker who boosted himself into a tie for the batting lead with Stan Musial at .354. Hal Gregg suffered his 11th defeat. Despite their disastrous road trip, the Brooks drew a crowd of 19,349 paid.

Phil Weintraub was the slugger man of the evening, clouting a grand slam homer to account for four runs of New York's 5-2 margin on Pittsburgh. The clout, Phil's 12th, hoisted the Giants' first sacker into the runs batted in lead and assured Bill Voiselle of his 12th victory and Fritz Ostermueler of his third setback.

Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

When a forest fire passes through pine timber, the seeds remain unharmed inside the cones, ready to start a new crop of trees.

Pushing over three tallies in the sixth inning the Jamestown Falcons beat the Wellsville Yankees 4-3. The Yankees saw their 3-1 lead melt away when Falcons catcher Mordarski doubled to drive in the winning runs.

In another close contest the Batavia Clippers edged Olean 8-7. The league leading Lockport Cubs pushed the Bradford Blue Wings deeper into last place with a 7-2 win.

Today's games: Lockport at Bradford, Hornell at Erie, Olean at Batavia, Jamestown at Wellsville.

Stellar Attraction Is Booked For Wilder Field On Sunday

One of the outstanding baseball teams in Pennsylvania, the Dormont nine, will come to Wilder Field, Irvine, next Sunday afternoon to meet the National Forge & Ordnance club. This will be another stellar attraction, equal to that which a record crowd of fans witnessed at the Irvine diamond last week-end.

Included on the Dormont club are at least a half dozen ball players who were here last Sunday with the Honus Wagner All-Stars, according to word received from the manager of the outfit. While it was not definitely announced which of the All-Stars will be with Dormont, it is known that the cream of the team which beat the Forge by a close margin will be back in an attempt to repeat the performance.

Members of the National Forge team, who lost last Sunday for the first time in 16 starts, are anxious to get back into the win column against Dormont. They consider a victory over the coming club as one of the most desirable of the season.

Dormont was for many seasons the semi-pro championship club of the state, having several times participated in the national semi-pro play-offs. At present the team is in the Greater Pittsburgh League and is battling for the top of the circuit.

For the game next Sunday, it is expected that Dick Hines will be on the mound for the National Forge. He has chalked up six straight victories this season and is at present time the leading pitcher on the Irvine club. Freddy Gagliardi, who suffered his first setback at the hands of the Honus Wagner nine last Sunday will be in reserve.

The rest of the local lineup is expected to be the same as in last week's game.

A complete list of the visiting players is expected to arrive today or tomorrow and will be announced as soon as possible.

For Sunday's game, popular prices will prevail.

It was announced today that two outstanding games have been booked for the following two Sundays. On July 30 the Monessen Grays, a colored club, will oppose the Forge, while on August 6 the Bell Aircraft Comets, of Buffalo, will provide the opposition.

Robot Bombing Over England Hits New Peak
 That pounded the German war machine in the Reich and France yesterday.

Some bombs tore into the ground or into buildings in power dives with their engines still running. Others followed the orthodox pattern, crashing and exploding a few seconds after the engines quit. Still others came in silently in long glides so that the explosion was the first warning that the bomb had arrived.

British civilians went grimly about their business, sometimes being forced to alter their paths because rescue squads were digging wreckage of buildings for trapped people and removing bodies.

Two-Ply Aerial Attacks Made On Continent

 Planes struck out from Britain this morning as the Germans tossed one of the heaviest robot bomb attacks across the channel.

Following yesterday's record-breaking daylight offensive in support of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Casen drive, the RAF night bombers hammered two key railroad centers in eastern France, two synthetic oil plants in the Ruhr and flying bomb installations along the French coast.

Byrnes Not A Candidate for 2d Place
 nomination which Wallace is campaigning for personally.

Chairman Hannagan called the convention to order at 12:05 p. m. Delegate seats were unusually well-filled for a routine organizing session.

The Rt. Rev. John Zelezinski, pastor of St. Fideles church, Chicago, delivered the invocation, praying that "we understand full well the gravity and importance of our present position as a leading power of the world."

Red, white and blue neon "v's" sprang to light on stadium walls as Miss Eleanor Steber of the Chicago Opera Company sang the National Anthem.

Mayor Edward F. Kelly of Chicago, official host of the convention, recalled in a welcoming address that Mr. Roosevelt was nominated for his first and third terms in Chicago.

"Four years ago we also were united on our candidate," he said, "but then we didn't know that he would accept."

Kelly's first reference to "our courageous leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt," brought a whooping response from the crowd, from Hannagan down to the page boys.

While Kelly spoke, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, entered the hall and was escorted by big Chicago policemen to the platform.

"Roosevelt belongs," Kelly declared while the delegates applauded. "He meets the specifications. It is for victory for America that we fight, not for any particular party."

Another enthusiastic demonstration broke out when Kelly wound up his address with a prediction of victory in November.

Making certain that the delegates were thoroughly welcomed, Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, told the Democrats that "soon conventions will be held in Berlin and Tokyo."

"The delegates," he said, "will be our soldiers, sailors and Marshalls—only two words—unconditional surrender."

Lucas said "there is no man in America who understands the evil and duplicity of our enemy better than Mr. Roosevelt."

The president's reported listing of Truman, who has the support of the 32-vote Missouri delegation, gave swift impetus to a drive by his friends to make him the leading contender against Wallace.

Byrnes was said to have promised Truman his support.

There has been little apparent activity for Douglas and his friends have said he probably would be reluctant to accept a second place nomination.

Truman, who conferred during the morning with Byrnes, told a reporter he had not changed his stand that he was not a candidate and did not want the nomination.

Another rival for Wallace's job, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, remained silent but was huddling with labor, big city organization and New England spokesmen.

The designation of Truman and Douglas as the president's second and third choices was regarded by most delegates as putting Wallace under a disadvantage, since it likely would concentrate opposition to him.

There indications, however, that the vice president would remain in the race to the end.

Originally, Mr. Roosevelt declared for a free and open convention insofar as the vice presidential nomination is concerned—although, of course, his own nomination has been foregone since he announced his availability.

Escaped War Prisoner May Have Been Sighted Here

State and local police were conducting a hunt last evening for Heinz Golze, 23, German war prisoner who escaped from the packing plant at North East where war prisoners are at work. The guards at the plant reported that Golze was last seen about 4:30 a. m. yesterday when he was engaged in wheeling pulp from a packing plant to the furnace room. He is the first prisoner to escape since the Germans were taken to North East.

An alarm was immediately broadcast over the state police teletype both in New York state and Pennsylvania and the hunt became an intensive one. Warren police immediately got busy looking for the fellow. He is described as being 23 years of age; five feet seven inches tall weighing 136 lbs. with blue eyes, blonde hair and a ruddy complexion. He wore blue clothes with the letters "PW" on the back of the shirt.

While cruising about the city in the police car last night officers saw a light haired fellow run alongside a freight at the Pennsylvania avenue crossing and hop on the train. He wore blue clothes and the officers immediately took the matter up with Pennsylvania railroad officials and New York state police. The train was not scheduled to stop until it reached Quaker Bridge and the New York state officers arranged to meet the train and search it there.

No word has been received as yet by local officers as to further details.

Spring Forest Fires In The District 67

During the spring of 1944 a total of 67 forest and brush fires burned in the Complanter State Forest District. This District comprises all of Warren, Erie, and Crawford counties; Forest county, minus Barnett township; and all of Venango county north of the Allegheny river and French Creek. Approximately 680 acres of forest, brush, and grass lands were burned over by these fires, at an estimated property damage of $1499.60, and they were suppressed at a cost to the people of the State of $1003.39.

Of these fires 28 burned in Venango county, 25 in Warren, 9 in Forest, and 4 in Crawford. There were no fires reported from Erie county.

Railroads caused 30 of the fires, smokers and transients 19, brush and debris burners 10, lumbering operations 1, and miscellaneous causes, such as house fires and tractors, 7.

Although the season was not a bad one and the fires were generally small, the largest being slightly over 50 acres, the number of fires was larger than we have had for several years. This increase in fires can lead to a disaster, due to the depleted condition of our fire fighting forces, if the weather becomes adverse for any prolonged periods. The public is urged to exercise the greatest care this fall when in or adjacent to wooded areas.

The credit for what success we have had in keeping the forest fire menace from getting out of control should go to the splendid fire wardens and crewmen of our volunteer forest fire crews. These men are doing a remarkable job under wartime conditions.

Warren relatives have returned from Wilmington, Del., where on Thursday they attended the funeral of Edward A. Munch, former Warren resident and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Munch.

A solemn high mass was said in St. Thomas' Catholic church on Thursday morning for Mr. Munch, secretary of the Crosby and Hill Company and prominent figure in Wilmington American Legion and civic affairs. Members of Delaware Post, No. 1, American Legion, of which he was immediate past commander, conducted military rites at the grave in Cathedral cemetery.

Mr. Munch died Saturday, July 8, in the Delaware hospital from a heart attack suffered at his home on Friday morning. He was 47 years of age, attended Warren schools and was employed here by the C. H. Smith Company. Friends will read with interest the following excerpts taken from a Wilmington daily:

Born in Copenhagen, Mr. Munch came to this country when two years old. He made Wilmington his home after his marriage to the former Miss Mary Oswald, Johnstown, Pa., who survives. In addition to his wife he is survived by three brothers, Rudolph, of Utica, N. Y., Carl and George Munch, Warren, Pa.; and five sisters, Miss Viola Munch, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Homer Sigworth, N. DETAIL FOR TODAY A to N

A to N is a study on "what every enlisted man should know" and covers all the chapters from A to N in the blue-jacket's manual, which is sometimes referred to as the "Sailor's Bible." It is similar to a correspondence course in civilian life and was designed to help men who seek an advancement in rating. Most men taking the course begin it with vigor and find the first few tests relatively simple. However, as the course progresses, the tests become more difficult and interest dwindles accordingly. It is not uncommon, at this stage, to see the blue-jacket's manual being put to a new use; that of keeping the flies off the face while dozing.

Chapter 8

MARTHA hurried through the turnstile, up the steps, and into the street. It was five blocks from the subway to the Rand Manufacturing Plant where she and Louise worked—and they were long blocks, too. She glanced at the clock in the drugstore on the corner, and was relieved to see that it was only seven-thirty. There was still half an hour before she could go on duty.

She had a feeling that all was not well with her job. Whether it was due to guilt on her part or should be dismissed as a vague premonition, she did not know. But she could not deny that she was frightened.

"I've been absent four days," she said, appalled at the thought. "And how could I have done otherwise? Poor Angel—what would she have done without me? I had to stay home!"

Miss Larkin had left in a huff, as naturally she would, but not before she had spoken her piece: "She's your worry from now on, Mrs. Malone. The formulas are in the small suitcase. You'll have to work them out for yourself. You needn't count on getting any help from that glamorous daughter of yours. She don't know beans about babies. She's too busy being beautiful." She threw a scornful glance at Angel, adding, "I could tell you a few things that would make your hair curl, if I was a mind-to."

HOW could she say such dreadful things about Angel? Poor Angel who was so crushed—and so wonderfully brave. It gave Martha a sense of satisfaction to remember that she said: "Stop it, Miss Larkin! I won't on the pillow. Her face was turned toward the wall and her slim young figure was shaking with sobs.

Martha ran over, buttoning her uniform as she did so, and put a hand on the girl's shoulder. The girl turned, and Martha recognized her at once as Elsa Rand, daughter of Silas Rand, the plant's owner. Martha had never seen her at close range before, but the girl had been pointed out to her a number of times.

"So she can't take it. Then Louise was right," thought Martha, recalling Louise's remark when a few weeks before, the wealthy Elsa Rand and several of her friends had come to work at the plant. Louise had said, in her usual matter-of-fact way, "Just watch them fold up and quit—when they find out it's real work, not polite flag-waving."

Elsa stopped crying and turned to look at Martha. "I didn't know anyone was here," she said, wiping her eyes and obviously trying to pull herself together. "I just came in," answered Martha. "I heard you crying. Isn't there something I can do for you, Miss Rand? I'm Mrs. Malone, the rest-room attendant. Perhaps—"

The girl sat up and looked at her sharply. "So you're Mrs. Malone, are you?" Was there a scornful note in her voice? Martha couldn't be quite sure. But she was sure—quite sure—when Elsa added, drawing away: "No, I'm afraid you can't do anything, Mrs. Malone. That fine-leathered daughter of yours has done enough—more than enough!" She stood up, picked up her cap, took a compact out of her pocket, and ran into the lavatory.

MARTHA stepped back, as though she had been slapped in the face. What had Louise done have you talking like that about my daughter. Have you no pity—no decency?"

Angel had burst into tears and sunk down into the nearest chair, but the infuriated Miss Larkin had had no pity on her. "That's right—cry," she had snapped. "It'll do you good, maybe. You ought to be thankful I don't sue you for bringing me here under false pretenses. You tell me it's a house in the suburbs we're coming to, with a room to myself and a day off a week. I believe you, because we're coming by plane. And what do I find? A dump in Brooklyn!" She snorted, then raised her voice and added by way of a final touch:

"A fine place to bring a baby, I must say. No sunlight, no air, no nothing. If she don't get sick and die on your hands—well, you can't say I didn't warn you. At least I'm not responsible. . . ."

Martha had opened her mouth to speak, but the reference to Baby Jeanne had frightened her into silence. She did not need Miss Larkin's grim warning to convince her that it was no place for a baby.

THE next three days had been more than hectic. As Miss Larkin had predicted, Martha had assumed full charge of Baby Jeanne. Too, there were formulas to prepare, clothes to wash, meals to cook—not to mention the thousand and one tasks that are necessary when an adult household must be regaled to meet the needs of a young baby. Martha had gone about it cheerfully. Even to herself she would not acknowledge that she was tired, desperately tired.

"You don't get tired when you're doing things for people you love," she kept reminding herself over and over again. "At least, you aren't supposed to."

on the pillow. Her face was turned toward the wall and her slim young figure was shaking with sobs.

Martha ran over, buttoning her uniform as she did so, and put a hand on the girl's shoulder. The girl turned, and Martha recognized her at once as Elsa Rand, daughter of Silas Rand, the plant's owner. Martha had never seen her at close range before, but the girl had been pointed out to her a number of times.

"So she can't take it. Then Louise was right," thought Martha, recalling Louise's remark when a few weeks before, the wealthy Elsa Rand and several of her friends had come to work at the plant. Louise had said, in her usual matter-of-fact way, "Just watch them fold up and quit—when they find out it's real work, not polite flag-waving."

Elsa stopped crying and turned to look at Martha. "I didn't know anyone was here," she said, wiping her eyes and obviously trying to pull herself together. "I just came in," answered Martha. "I heard you crying. Isn't there something I can do for you, Miss Rand? I'm Mrs. Malone, the rest-room attendant. Perhaps—"

MARTHA stepped back, as though she had been slapped in the face. What had Louise done

But it didn't keep her back from hurting, or her tired muscles from protesting with pain. And it didn't erase that gnawing fear that was always in the back of her mind: the fear that she wasn't being any too efficient.

Try as hard as she might, Martha seemed always to be doing the wrong thing. Angel, who was frank to confess her ignorance regarding the right way to care for a baby, had an uncanny instinct for detecting the wrong way.

Coupled with Martha's fear of doing the wrong thing was the memory of Miss Larkin's warning, and the terrifying awareness that the dark, poorly ventilated railroad flat was bad for the baby. She would wake up in the night, go over and feel Baby Jeanne's pulse, smooth the soft, damp curls back from the tiny forehead, listen to the quiet, damp breathing. Then she would go back to bed, not to sleep, but to breathe a silent prayer of thanksgiving, say over and over again:

"What if she should get sick? What if she should die? Angel's got—now that Jimmie's gone—"

Angel had been practically no help at all, but that was understandable. A girl who had never been around babies before could not be expected to carry through with a routine that had Martha, the mother of three, bewildered almost to the point of panic. It was natural, too, that Angel should be moody and high-strung. Undoubtedly Jimmie's loss had been a terrible blow to her. But Martha did wish that Angel wouldn't get so excited when Baby Jeanne cried. All babies cried—mothers had to get used to it. Besides, Baby Jeanne wasn't sick, in spite of Mrs. Grogan's ominous prophecies.

to Elsa Rand that she should behave like this? Why, they didn't even know each other, didn't even work on the same shift. Perhaps Louise had said something that had gotten back to Elsa. Something about society girls who went into defense work just for a lark. Louise was like that—a little too frank and outspoken. She, Martha, would have to warn her to be more discreet.

She started to go back to her locker to put her street clothes away, then noticed the pile of papers on the floor by the couch where Elsa had been lying. She stooped over to pick up the litter, and saw that it was a page clipped from this morning's newspaper. The page containing Angel's pictures, and it had been torn into shreds. Martha gathered up the bits of paper and stuffed them into her uniform pocket.

"What does it mean?" she whispered. "Angel's beautiful pictures torn to shreds!" It was not until she rose to her feet that she saw the picture of Jimmie. It had been carefully clipped out of the page and was lying half under the couch pillow where Elsa, in her haste to get away from Martha, had left it. Martha reached over and picked up the picture. It was sodden and damp.

"What does it mean?" Martha repeated. "Jimmie's picture carefully clipped out—and wet with another girl's tears. . . ."

She stood motionless for a moment, trying to find the answer. Then the door opened and the girls from the graveyard shift began to file in. Hastily, she stuffed Jimmie's picture into her pocket, along with the mutilated pictures of Angel. There was no time to think now. It was eight o'clock and her working day had begun.

Air and Warship Attacks On Biggest Island in Marianas Enters 13th Consecutive Day

CHINESE BATTLE GRIMLY

By J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor
U. S. battleships moved in close Sunday to speed the reduction of Guam as a strong Japanese base in the western Pacific approaches to Tokyo.

On the 13th consecutive day of air and warship attack on this biggest island in the Marianas group, which also includes the island of Saipan, the big rifles of America's new battlewagons fired from close range on defenses which might hinder landing attempts.

Adm. Chester Nimitz reported yesterday the Sunday bombardment failed to arouse answering fire from the enemy. Destroyers let go ack-ack guns on planes spotting targets for the battleships.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men steadily whittled away Japanese sea strength by sinking or damaging four more cargo vessels in the southwest Pacific. The Japs have been slipping.

Chinese forces battled with grim desperation to hold Hengyang, Chungking said, penetrating enemy positions near the important rail city and inflicting heavy losses on another force 34 miles south of Hengyang.

The latter Japanese force, which by-passed Hengyang in a grab at control of the Han-Kow-Canton railway, shows "signs of collapse," Chungking reported.

Japanese trying to rescue an isolated garrison at Pingka, Salween river village near Lungling on the Burma road, were defeated and forced to retreat, the Chinese high command said.

Chinese high command said the possible reopening of the Burma road, in monsoon-drenched northern moved forward another 200 yards Burma Gen. Stilwell's allied force into Myitkyna, part of which they have taken from stubborn Japanese defenders.

Doughboys Dig In To Defend Prize St. Lo

By DON WHITEHEAD

St. Lo, France, July 19—(P)—The Germans battered this wrecked city with artillery and mortar shells today as the Doughboys dug into the rubble to defend the prize won after eight days of fighting.

Explosions are crashing from one end of the city to the other and around three sides the Doughboys still are battling Germans caught in the sudden forward surge. St. Lo is the American's but the Yanks still are fighting fanatical parachute troops making last stand.

St. Lo is deserted except for Yanks slipping from building to building, dodging into doorways when shells crash, and for troops manning machineguns, bazookas and defensive positions on the approaches to the town.

In a cemetery at the eastern edge of St. Lo, Maj. Glover Johns of Corpus Christi, Tex., had a temporary command post in the crypt of the Blanchet family. Its thick walls protected the men from flying shrapnel as shells burst outside.

About 200 Germans were pocketed on the southeastern side of the city, trying to fight their way out, and Capt. Cecil Harvey of Sevier (Turn to Page Nine)

156,000 Germans "Written Off" In Drive in Normandy

Main Battle Line Has Passed on Southeast of Faubourg de Vaucelles Into Plains Where Rommel Is Throwing In Tank Forces

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES IN NOYERS AREA

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 19—(P)—Heavy German counter-attacks, buttressed by armor, were hurled today across the battle-churned plain below Caen against the smashing British-Canadian offensive which breached Nazi lines and drove five miles southeast of that bastion town on the Paris road.

Supreme headquarters gave no new details on this mammoth engagement, but other British forces struck forward along the center, extending the blazing front to 20 miles.

Americans wiped out pocketed Germans north of fallen St. Lo. The Doughboys made a 2½-mile advance, wrecked 16 Nazi tanks staging a futile counter-attack, and reached the east bank of the Vire river all along this sector. The towns of La Capelle and Grand Hamel were captured.

The British advance toward the center captured Hottot-les-Bagues, long a thorn in the Allied line, 2½ miles southwest of Tilly-sur-Seuilles. They widened a wedge around Noyers on the Caen-Villers Bocage road, and beat back enemy counterblows at Maltot, between the Orne and Odon rivers.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery told a press conference that the Allies had captured 60,000 Germans and buried 8,000 in Normandy, and added:

"It's a reasonable conjecture that we have written off 150,000 Germans."

BULLETIN
Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 19—(P)—British forces bursting into the battle-churned open below Caen have smashed the first German counter-attack mounted by picked Nazi tank divisions. It was disclosed tonight, and have driven five miles southeast of that bastion town on the road to Paris.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was throwing in his reserves of his best forces, and a battle of rising fury for high stakes raged over flat terrain.

On the western portion of the Normandy front American units mopped up and occupied strategic St. Lo, cutting off a force of Germans in a salient two and one-half miles deep north of the town. The Yanks also cut the St. Lo-Perriers road between the Taute and Vire rivers south of the village of Amigny, which is in American hands.

The supreme command announced that Montgomery's mopping up troops had cleared half of Fouborg de Vaucelles of Germans, and said that the main battle line had passed on southeast into the plains beyond, where Rommel was throwing in tank forces in a frantic effort to stem the Allied side of armor and explosives.

Montgomery made no statement concerning specific gains, contenting himself with the announcement that his troops had breached the Germans' Orne defenses. This is the side of the front toward Paris, 120 miles to the east.

Heavy fighting continued in the Noyers area, five miles northeast of Villers-Bocage on the British right flank.

The Americans captured Rappan, 2½ miles northwest of St. Lo on the Vire river.

The Germans showed little ability to cope with the power of the combined air-land thrust.

The offensive, in preparation more than 40 days, was the heaviest in weight of men and armor the Allies have unleashed in Europe. It was a straight power punch.

Allied air forces called in more than 2,200 bombers for the initial explosives wallop directly across the river from Caen.

Thousands of British and Canadian guns laid down a curtain of fire ahead of the advancing tanks. From the sea, the British cruisers Maritima and Enterprise and the monitor Roberts added their salvos.

The curtain of explosives left the Nazi defenders dazed. Many of the prisoners were confused, and shaken so fiercely they were unable to work the bolts on their rifles.

Tanks poured through the "corridor" and raced for the plains beyond where British infantry followed. (Turn to Page Nine)

Veranda Huddles Held By Dewey
Albany, N. Y., July 19—(P)—The pattern of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's "front veranda" summer campaign to seat himself in the White House appeared today to hinge on party organization.

Observers of the Republican presidential nominee's political methods said it had become apparent the 42-year-old governor was laying the foundation of his election drive on the time-tested formula of state and local party teamwork.

They based their conclusions on Dewey's almost uninterrupted post-convention series of huddles with GOP congressional leaders. These parleys, held at the executive mansion—frequently on the front veranda—began with the visit of the Massachusetts governor, Leverett Saltonstall and Republican congressmen from the bay state.

There came to Albany in quick succession party delegations from Vermont, Maine and Connecticut.

The latest of the congressional visitors, Rep. James W. Wadsworth (R-N.Y.), talked it over with the governor at and after dinner last night.

Death Toll In Nation's Worst Wartime Explosion Totals 350

By the Associated Press
Port Chicago, Calif., July 19—Reconstruction of the navy's Port Chicago ammunition depot began today as the death toll in the nation's worst wartime explosion approximated 350.

All available construction workers were urged to report to the devastated area where the explosions of two ammunition ships late Monday night shattered the munitions base and the town of 1,500 as well.

The blasts, two seconds apart, shook 14 counties and their earthquake-like effects were felt 80 miles away.

The cause remained undetermined.

An exact count of the dead was difficult because the explosions were so terrific they killed without leaving a trace of identification. Only four bodies had been recovered last night.

Brest Litovsk Defenses Are Crashed By Russian Forces

London, July 19—(P)—Moscow dispatches said today that Russian forces were crashing the outer defenses of the great fortress city of Brest Litovsk on the river Bug and that other Red troops had crossed the Curzon line into Poland proper 45 miles to the north.

The Fresh Russian offensive, sixth major stroke in the summer campaign, was declared sweeping upon Lwow like a tidal wave. North of the old Polish rail center of 317,700, troops of the First Ukrainian Army group were reported fighting on the demarcation line established in 1939 by Russia and Germany in the fourth partition of Poland.

Moscow at midnight reported Red army forces 22 miles northeast and 27 miles east of Lwow, one of Europe's great rail centers.

Moscow, July 19—(P)—Six Russian armies poured through huge holes today in Hitler's eastern front—from Marshal Ivan S. Konev's new 125-mile breakthrough on the south to Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's drive into the Soviet Latvian republic on the north, now 20 miles inside the border.

Significant objectives were just ahead from one end to the other of the battlefield, which was extended to 550 miles in length by the new offensive set off by Konev's first Ukrainian army Sunday between Lwow and Kovel.

Konev's tanks and infantry, which made three-day gains of 31 miles, already were less than 10 miles from the Polish border (as delineated by the Germans and Russians in 1939) at two places northeast of Lwow and were across the Bug river at Selets-Belski, south of Sokal.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's troops, now roughly 110 miles due east of Warsaw, are driving toward the western gateway city of Brest Litovsk from a point only 12 miles to the northeast.

Captured Nazi General Tells of Antagonism
By EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, July 19—(P)—The Russian press published today a statement by Gen. Edmund Hoffmeister, captured commander of the 41st German tank corps, declaring a disagreement among Hitler's generals over strategy on the western front was costing a great toll of lives and prisoners.

The captured general's statement, as published in Soviet newspapers, criticized Hitler's insistence on holding ground and refusing to retreat unless bludgeoned from positions.

The captive said there was considerable antagonism between older and younger commanders, but that the veterans were keeping silent and carrying out orders because Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, had announced that any criticism would be punished by death.

Hoffmeister asserted that Hitler, to affirm his strategy, recently called a conference of generals and admirals and that he attended.

"His (Hitler's) face was swollen, his voice was low and he got mixed up in his speech," the statement said.

War Mobilization Director In Letter to Chairman Hannegan Withdraws From Race

DOUGLAS CROWD QUIET

By JACK BELL

Chicago, July 19—(P)—President Roosevelt was reportedly authorized to have listed Senator Harry Truman of Missouri and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as his second and third choices for the vice presidential nomination at the Democratic convention opening today.

Word of the president's choices—he previously had endorsed Vice President Henry A. Wallace as his No. 1 selection—spread rapidly among delegates as they filtered into Chicago's huge stadium for the convention's first session.

Mr. Roosevelt's address presumably will be in the nature of an acceptance speech since the convention schedule calls for his nomination for a fourth term tomorrow afternoon.

The convention's first session. Those in a position to know said that a communication from the president to National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan led to the action of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes in directing earlier in the day that his name not be placed in nomination for second place.

Byrnes wrote Senator Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina that "in deference to the wishes of the president," he was not a candidate. Previously he had been one of the leading contenders for a

Racial Issue Is Still Unsettled
By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Chicago, July 19—(P)—A tense behind-the-scenes struggle over the racial issue bedeviled Democratic platform drafters today as they drove public hearings toward a close with a forum on foreign policy.

The platform group arranged to hear upwards of a score of post-war peace declarations from a variety of sponsors but gave every private indication that the final choice for a foreign plank already is settled on and that it has Secretary of State Cordell Hull's approval and presumably that of the president.

This is a proposal of approximately 300 words prepared by Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee which reports early calls for the use of force to prevent aggression and keep the peace.

They based their conclusions on Dewey's almost uninterrupted post-convention series of huddles with GOP congressional leaders. Chicago, July 19—(P)—Vice President Wallace arrived today to take personal charge of his campaign for re-nomination by the Democrats.

Told when he stepped from the train that War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes had taken himself out of the vice-presidential race, Wallace remarked:

"Well, that takes care of that." Refusing to say what he thought his own chances were, Wallace added, "I'm just out here as chairman of the Iowa delegation."

"Do you think the Byrnes withdrawal makes your chances better?" he was asked. "I'm just a delegate," he replied.

Wallace appeared smiling and chipper.

Robot Attack Over England Hits New Peak

By the Associated Press

London, July 19—London and southern England were targets of the greatest 24-hour robot bomb attack last night and today since the German weapon first was loosed June 15.

Gen. Eisenhower's invasion headquarters interpreted the attack as an effort to divert the mighty pace of Allied air power which has been stunning German troops across the channel with an unprecedented deluge of bombs.

The number of flying bombs, launched from the Calais coast of France, increased noticeably with the start of the British offensive below Caen and it was apparent that the German command had decided to strike the civilian population of England in a gamble to pull away some of the 7,350 planes (Turn to Page Nine)

Harrisburg, July 19—(P)—The Harrisburg Patriot and the Evening News, two papers published by Vance C. McCormick, who as chairman of the National Democratic Committee in 1916 helped to re-elect Woodrow Wilson for a second term during World War one, said in an editorial today that they cannot support President Roosevelt for a fourth term.

The editorial states that four years ago the papers could not support Roosevelt for a third term and "clearly cannot sanction the greater violence to American tradition in a fourth term."

The editorial concludes with: "Should Mr. Roosevelt, by death or any other reason be unable to serve, does any American in his or her right senses think that General Marshall, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Admiral King, General Arnold, their staffs and subordinate officers clear down to the lowest private could not and would not win this war with a satisfactory peace to follow?"

Book Club Is Organized at Public Library

The Young People's Book Club was organized last evening at the public library. It may be necessary to divide the club in two sections because of the number of boys and girls who have signed up. But anyone who is interested is asked to get in touch with Mrs. Huff, head of the advisory department, before the next meeting on August first.

The young people who met for organization last night decided to have a rotating chairmanship, in order that the responsibility and experience would be better distributed. The membership will be equally divided between boys and girls and includes those in the junior and senior classes and those who graduated in June.

An interesting program has been blocked out. All those present were given a share in the first program meeting on August first. The young people have already started their reading preparatory to the discussion.

Firemen Are Being Drilled On Equipment

Fire Chief Albaugh during the past few weeks has been giving the men of the department intensive drills in the handling of the apparatus in the department. It is his aim to have every man in the department thoroughly trained in the driving and handling of all apparatus. The fact that the department has a number of green men is causing the chief to take this step in an effort to get the firemen all familiar with all of the pieces of apparatus and the equipment on the trucks.

During the past few days several of the pumpers and the high pressure truck have been taken to the island and the men put to work on them. Yesterday the crews were at work near the mill race at the bus barns and some intensive work was done. Captain Minter is giving some of the instruction and it is planned to keep the crews busy every day on some form of work that will make them better firemen.

Big Cribbing Project Ahead On River Road

The river road through Pleasant township to Glade Run is getting plenty of attention from the State Highway employees here. The road has developed a tendency to slide and several slides have taken place. One of them last spring was of large size and trucks of the department spent several days hauling away the earth and debris that came down. Due to the placing of the road above the railroad tracks the earth could not be shoveled over the hill but had to be hauled away.

The matter of placing cribbing along the road to hold the earth from sliding has been under discussion for some time but as yet no decision has been reached due to the cost. There are about 900 feet where the cribbing is considered to be necessary and to place this cribbing would require a large amount of material and the power is one that is bothering the department in figuring on the job.

Quota Over Top at Blood Bank Monday

The visit of the blood bank unit to this city on Monday was satisfactory in more ways than one. The number of donors exceeded the quota set for the visit and only three failed to keep their appointment but it is presumed that they made an effort to do so. This is exceptional. There were 208 who called to give blood and of this number 34 were rejected thus 174 pints of blood were given. The quota set for the visit was 167.

At Sheffield yesterday that town really set a record as there were 28 rejections and 141 persons gave a pint of blood.

In Warren on Monday Miss Alice Duntley, of Corydon gave her blood for the ninth time. Eight donations were made in New York City.

CORYDON

July 18—Considering size of the community and numerous persons employed out of town, it was required to purchase bonds through companies thus employed. Corydon has every reason to feel that reaching its goal of 50 is purchased and three over the total number 53. It is due volunteer workers, chairman Mrs. E. S. Van der, and R. B. Leonard, who led Corydon and Kinzua communities of the county during the war bond drive.

Local Boy Scout members left Sunday for Camp Olmstead, near planter for a vacation outing. The absence of the Rev. Alan P. Stutz, Scout master, they were accompanied by E. S. Van der, and R. B. Leonard, who led Corydon and Kinzua communities of the county during the war bond drive.

Mrs. Thelma Pendergast was sent for the meeting of 4-H members held recently at the home of the local leader Mrs. Ruth K. Stutz. Members and superior officers of the Corydon organization met to gather for a picnic, however no definite decision at the time has been made regarding it.

Members of the Friday club and guest guests were entertained at home of Mrs. Mabel Russ. Following three tables of 500 in play, a card token was presented to Charles Whyte, second honoree going to Mrs. L. J. Whyte. The Rev. and Mrs. Alan Pfautz, daughter Norene, Mrs. Thomas Hurs and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Stutz, returned Monday from But-

Supervisors For Evening Need In Playground Program Locally

Questioning concerning curtailment of the newly authorized evening program of supervised recreation on the borough's playground areas has brought to light several interesting facts.

Among these is included undisputed figures that the playgrounds have been well patronized by the youngsters in the month's probationary period set by borough council for testing out the new project.

And yet, in the face of these figures, supervision has been reduced to three nights weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. This curtailment, according to Joseph DeFrees, chairman of the borough park committee, is due to lack of sufficient older personnel with which to carry on adequate supervision.

Those who were hired at the start of the summer playground season were secured for daytime work and have willingly extended their efforts through the evening hours of the trial period in order to learn if there is really a need for such a program.

Since the program requires their attendance every evening at their allotted areas, these supervisors feel that the assignment is too confining and leaves them no time for personal activities.

No substitutes are available for assignment to evening hours and the curtailment mentioned above has been the result.

Asked today concerning a possible solution to the problem, Mr. DeFrees stated that funds are available to pay supervisors deemed qualified for the task and volunteers among older girls and young women are all that is necessary for reinstatement of the full schedule.

Another fact brought out is that older lads have been making things difficult for the girls assigned as supervisors, interfering with their efforts and taking their time from the children they were asked to look after.

This problem could be readily solved, it is stated, if some of the volunteers were older men capable of handling the troublemakers.

The children have proved their need of such a program by their splendid attendance during the trial month of June and success of the summer evening program seems to lie in the hands of adults sufficiently interested in the youngsters to volunteer one or two evenings each week to carrying on the full time schedule.

Any person interested in such activity and willing to volunteer as a paid supervisor is asked to communicate with Henry Kolpien, playground area supervisor. Mr. Kolpien will be at Beatty playground this evening, Thursday and Friday evenings from seven until eight o'clock to interview applicants willing to serve two evenings a week, either voluntarily or as paid supervisors.

Medicos Hear Discussion Of Diseases That May Follow War

Because of the fact that our armies are fighting on soil of many foreign countries, we may expect to see many types of diseases brought to us by returning troops, according to Major Charles H. Drenkhahn, of Deshon Army Hospital at Butler.

Speaking here Tuesday at the monthly meeting of Warren County Medical Society, held at the YWCA activities building, the army official stated that two forms of such diseases are especially prevalent, malaria and dysentery. He described these in detail and outlined present forms of treatment.

He said that in Italy our army encountered typhus, also, but through an intensive treatment, use of vaccine, etc., this disease had its mortality greatly reduced. Malaria, however, can be fatal and in the past has caused more deaths than all other diseases put together. Major Drenkhahn pointed out that we may expect about one in eight or our returning soldiers to be infected with this disease, but, when it is promptly recognized and active treatment instituted with quinine and its substitutes, the symptoms may be overcome.

Also brought out by the speaker was the fact that anemic dysentery is the important disease which attacks troops in Asiatic countries, proved by the fact that in the Spanish-American War it was the cause of many fatalities. While a milder form is present in many millions of our own population, Dr. Drenkhahn stressed the fact that it may become epidemic if transmitted from the tropics, but, fortunately, some new drugs have been very successful in treatment of the disease.

The talk proved a very interesting one and served to prove that disease may lose wars and destroy civilization as surely as gunpowder and dynamite.

There were 22 members present at the dinner which followed, with Doctors R. L. Young, E. S. Africa, E. R. Anderson, M. B. Ball and William L. Ball as hosts.

J. A. JOHNSON

Correspondent Describes Handling Casualty Reports

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, July 19—(AP)—Once an hour, sixteen times a day, a locked dispatch is carried into a rambling, stuccoed war department building on Constitution avenue. The pouch contains the raw material of heartbreak and of hope—Casualty reports from the nation's fighting forces.

Armed couriers hand the pouches over to specialists who decode and classify the information. Not all the news is bad; some of the messages report that wounded men are recovering, that missing soldiers have rejoined their outfits.

But there is grief enough in the sacks, and the faces of the men and women who work in the casualty branch of the adjutant general's office reflect the gravity of their responsibility.

"Every piece of paper we touch is a heartbreak for someone," observed Col. George F. Herbert, head of the casualty branch.

Nearly 10,000 telegrams and 8,000 letters go out from the office every week. Ten telephone operators are kept busy handling calls from anxious mothers, fathers and wives.

In case of death, the telegram is followed by a sympathetic, individually written letter—not a form—relating the known circumstances.

Macie I. Flower Was Lovable In School Room

When they were passing out names for the school buildings of Warren the school board certainly overlooked naming one for Macie I. Flower who as a teacher in old No. 8, Central Building endeared herself to hundreds in Warren. Miss Flower was one of those women endowed by nature with plenty of patience, an understanding heart and the gift of drawing out the best of those with whom she came in contact.

Back in old No. 8 she had about 50 (and the writer can remember well) of the most cantankerous little devils that ever faced a school mistress. And Miss Flower subdued that gang with love and understanding and at the end of the school term sent out a group of which any teacher might feel proud.

Miss Flower for a number of years has been a guest at the Watson Home and her condition today is aggravated by the ravages of time but she still has the ability to smile that smile that all of "her boys and girls" remember well and which sort of causes a tugging at the heart strings of her former pupils.

And to this lovable old lady let us present a whole big bunch of orchids for giving to the memory of any recollections of pleasant hours in a school room where understanding was the basis of discipline.

Correspondent Writes Grim Story on "Cave of Horrors"

(The following story, distributed by the Associated Press, was written by Serg. David Dempsey, 74 West 12th St., New York City, a Marine corps combat correspondent.)

Saipan, Marianas Islands (Delayed)—Marines have named it the "cave of horrors," for of the hundreds of caves on this island, one has produced a story as grim as this one.

In a secluded spot in a canyon well behind our own lines, two Marines passing by heard Japanese voices. They listened, decided the voices were coming from a cave, and crept as close as they could to the top of the cliff where the cave was located.

One of the Marines peered over the cliff's edge to find a Japanese soldier staring up at him. He heard the click of a rifle bolt and pulled back quickly. The Marines went back for help.

Second Lieut. Charles T. Cross, 56, Minneapolis, returned with 16 men. Second Lieut. Cross is a Japanese interpreter who hoped to talk the Japanese into surrendering.

As the men approached the cave, they could hear the crying of babies and the moaning of women.

By removing a large slab of stone on top of the cliff the Marines could see down into the cave. Women, children, old men, and soldiers were huddled together in mixed postures of fear and defiance.

An old man looked up at them pitifully. "Mizu," he groaned. "mizu... mizu..." (water... water...)

Cross told him to send a child out and that water would be supplied. Then some of the Marines went to the mouth of the cave and waited. The child did not come. Finally, Cross approached the entrance. He shouted to the people in Japanese, promising them that they would be given food, water, and medical treatment if they came out. One at a time with their arms in the air.

The Marines waited, but no one came. The sound of the old man groaning mizu... mizu... was all they heard.

Cross crawled closer and spoke to them again. Suddenly he heard the sound of hand grenades clicking as the pines were knocked out against the rocky walls of the cave. Cross jumped back just in time as the grenades began to explode in the cave.

Jap soldiers were committing suicide, killing and wounding their own people as they did so.

The Marines waited in awe-struck horror. From inside the cave came a pitiful chorus of wailing babies and the screams of women.

Arne Anderson Sets a New World Record For the Mile

Stockholm, July 19.—(P)—Arne Anderson, the flying Swedish school teacher, ran a world record mile of 4:01.6 yesterday, an indication that the much elusive four-minute mile is just around the corner.

In clipping a full second off the world standing of 4:02.6 that he set a year ago, July 1, Anderson beat his more famous countryman, Gunder Haegg, by two meters. Haegg was timed in 4:02, his fastest speed for the distance.

Anderson's 4:01.6 mile was the latest development in the running of the event that has become a monopoly for him and Haegg. They have shattered the mark four times in the last two years, cutting nearly five seconds off the 4:06.4 turned in by Sidney Wooderson of England, in 1937.

"I cannot imagine anyone running the mile in four minutes or less during this or the next few years," Anderson declared a year ago after his 4:02.6 feat.

Browns Rout Yank Hoodoo To Take 3-Game Lead In League

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The "Yankee hoodoo" that is supposed to haunt the St. Louis Browns vanished in thin air today as Luke Sewell's leaders took charge of the American League pennant race with a 3-game winning margin.

Opening a long home stand and a vital 4-game series, the Browns blasted Emil Rosta and Johnny Johnson for an 8-0 edge while Bob Murfitt worked his shutout charm for the third time, the second against the Yanks.

B. I. King of the loop was out of the lineup, the pennant-starved Browns uncorked a home run punch from Milt Byrnes, Gene Moore and Chet Laabs in a 12-hit total for their fourth triumph over New York in 11 starts.

Boston maintained its mastery over Chicago, notching an 11th straight at the White Sox's expense on a 4-2 edge in 11 innings. Gordy Maltzberger, leading pitcher in the league, had a 6-game relief win streak snapped as Tex Hughson picked up win No. 14.

Jimmy Outlaw's single scored Joe Hoover from second base with the big run as Detroit took a 6-5 nod over Washington in an 11-frame twilight contest. Hal Newhouse gained his 14th triumph in relief at Al Carrasquillo's expense.

Al Smith stopped a 9th inning Philadelphia rally one run short and held on to pitch Cleveland to a 4-3 margin over the A's Don Black was Connie Mack's loser as though First Sacker Bill McGhee did his best with four hits for a losing cause.

St. Louis's more secure first place tenant, the Cardinals of the National league, had little trouble in silencing Brooklyn, 5-0, in one of two games played in Ford Frick's circuit.

Max Lanier turned back the Dodgers with four hits but two were off the bat of Dixie Walker who boasted himself into a tie for the batting lead with Stan Musial at .354. Hal Gregg suffered his 11th defeat. Despite their disastrous road trip the Brooks drew a crowd of 19,549 paid.

Phil Weintraub was the slugger man of the evening, clouting a grand slam homer to account for four runs of New York's 5-2 margin on Pittsburgh. The clout, Phil's 12th, hoisted the Giants' first sacker into the runs batted in lead and assured Bill Voiselle of his 12th victory and Fritz Ostermuller of his third setback.

Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

Veterinarians Are Unable To Save Champ

St. Charles, Ill., July 19.—(P)—Volo Song, world champion trotting stallion, lay buried on a northern Illinois farm today, three days after the winner of the $50,000 Hambletonian classic broke a leg in a $400 race at Elkhorn, Wis.

The four-year-old brown stallion was destroyed yesterday on the farm of his owner, E. J. Baker of St. Charles, after veterinarians made every effort to mend his injury and save him for breeding purposes.

He was buried along side Winnipeg, another of the St. Charles sportsman's great trotting champions.

A specialist reported Volo Song suffered a multiple break in his left foreleg in a mishap at Elkhorn Sunday and advised that the animal, insured for $25,000, be destroyed.

Volo Song, heralded as a successor to the famed trotting gelding, Greyhound, established an Empire City track trotting record of 2:02 1/2 in capturing the first heat of the Hambletonian last year. He then was owned by William H. Strang of Brooklyn, who sold the champion to Baker for $30,000.

PONY LEAGUE

Buffalo, N. Y., July 19.—(P)—For the first time since the second game of the season the Erie Sailors were pushed out of the first division in the Pony League standings when the Hornell Pirates scored a 9-3 victory last night.

The Pirates grabbed the fourth spot by making their 14 hits pay off in runs, bunting three tallies in the third and four more in the seventh.

Pushing over three tallies in the sixth inning the Jamestown Falcons beat the Wellsville Yankees 4-3. The Yankees saw their 3-1 lead melt away when Falcons catcher Mordarski doubled to drive in the winning runs.

In another close contest the Batavia Clippers edged Olean 8-7. The league leading Lockport Cubs pushed the Bradford Blue Wings deeper into last place with a 7-2 win.

Today's games: Lockport at Bradford, Hornell at Erie, Olean at Batavia, Jamestown at Wellsville.

Bettina Earns A Chance To Meet Baksi

Pittsburgh, July 19.—(P)—Melo Bettina, one-time light heavyweight champion, today looked forward to a crack at Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, No. 4 ranking heavyweight, after giving Curtis (The Hatchet Man) Sheppard a boxing lesson for the better part of a ten-round session here last night.

Bettina, ranked No. 5 by the National Boxing Association, never was in trouble as he kept with his weaving, bobbing south-paw style in last night's battle—his third victory since he came out of a nine months' retirement.

Onejudge and the referee gave Sheppard but two rounds, and the second judge gave him but three.

A bout with Baksi tentatively has been arranged for sometime late in August or early in September at Forbes Field here.

No one should borrow unnecessarily, but there are times when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. Thousands of letters in our files tell of the many worth-while things made possible by a Personal loan. If you need extra cash, perhaps a Personal loan would be to your advantage too.

Personal makes loans promptly and privately, without involving outsiders. Sensible monthly payments are arranged, and the cost is surprisingly low. For example: $30 for 2 weeks costs less than 88¢. Lucky 13th?

Some bombs tore into the ground or into buildings in power dives with their engines still running. Others followed the orthodox pattern, crashing and exploding a few seconds after the engines quit. Still others came in silently in long glides so that the explosion was the first warning that the bomb had arrived.

British civilians went grimly about their business, sometimes being forced to alter their paths because rescue squads were digging wreckage of buildings for trapped people and removing bodies.

Planes struck out from Britain this morning as the Germans tossed one of the heaviest robot bomb attacks across the channel.

Following up yesterday's record-breaking daylight offensive in support of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Caen drive, the RAF night bombers hammered two key railroad centers in eastern France, two synthetic oil plants in the Ruhr and flying bomb installations along the French

Escaped War Prisoner May Have Been Sighted Here

State and local police were conducting a hunt last evening for Heinz Golze, 23, German war prisoner who escaped from the packing plant at North East where war prisoners are at work. The guards at the plant reported that Golze was last seen about 4:30 a. m. yesterday when he was engaged in wheeling pulp from a packing plant to the furnace room. He is the first prisoner to escape since the Germans were taken to North East.

An alarm was immediately broadcast over the state police teletype both in New York state and Pennsylvania and the hunt became an intensive one. Warren police immediately got busy looking for the fellow. He is described as being 23 years of age; five feet seven inches tall weighing 135 lbs. with blue eyes, blonde hair and a ruddy complexion. He wore blue clothes with the letters "PW" on the back of the shirt.

While cruising about the city in the police car last night officers saw a light haired fellow running alongside a freight at the Pennsylvania avenue crossing and hop on the train. He wore blue clothes and the officers immediately took the matter up with Pennsylvania railroad officials and New York state police. The train was not scheduled to stop until it reached Quaker Bridge and the New York state officers arranged to meet the train and search it there.

No word has been received as yet by local officers as to further details.

Spring Forest Fires In the District 67

During the spring of 1944 a total of 67 forest and brush fires burned in the Cornplanter State Forest District. This district comprises all of Warren, Erie, and Crawford counties; Forest county, minus Barnett township; and all of Venango county north of the Allegheny river and French Creek. Approximately 680 acres of forest, brush, and grass lands were burned over by these fires, at an estimated property damage of $1499.60, and they were suppressed at a cost to the people of the State of $1003.39.

Of these fires 28 burned in Venango county, 26 in Warren, 9 in Forest, and 4 in Crawford. There were no fires reported from Erie county.

Railroads caused 30 of the fires. Smokers and transients 19, brush and debris burners 10, lumbering operations 1, and miscellaneous causes, such as house fires and tractors, 7.

Although the season was not a bad one and the fires were generally small, the largest being slightly over 50 acres, the number of fires was larger than we have had for several years. This increase in fires can lead to a disaster, due to the depleted condition of our fire fighting forces, if the weather becomes adverse for any prolonged periods. The public is urged to exercise the greatest care this fall when in or adjacent to wooded areas.

The credit for what success we have had in keeping the forest fire menace from getting out of control should go to the splendid fire wardens and crewmen of our volunteer forest fire crews. These men are doing a remarkable job under wartime conditions.

DETAIL FOR TODAY A to N

A to N is a study on "what every enlisted man should know" and covers all the chapters from A to N in the blue-jacket's manual, which is sometimes referred to as the "Soldier's Bible." It is similar to a correspondence course in civilian life and was designed to help men who seek an advancement in rating. Most men taking the course begin it with vigor and find the first few tests relatively simple. However, as the course progresses, the tests become more difficult and interest dwindles accordingly. It is not uncommon, at this stage, to see the blue-jacket's manual being put to a new use; that of keeping the flies off the face while dozing.

Active in the mercantile section of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Munch was in charge of the program for the arrangement of the flags in the Court of Nations in Rodney Square. He also assisted in bringing a group of motion picture stars here in connection with the Fifth War Loan drive.

Mr. Munch was a past president of the Wilmington Diocesan Alumni Association and an assistant captain of the Wilmington Men of Malvern. He also was a former officer of the Wilmington Lodge, B. P. O. E. He was a director of the Five Points Building and Loan Association.

Chapter 8

MARTHA hurried through the turnstile, up the steps, and into the street. It was five blocks from the subway to the Rand Manufacturing Plant where she and Louise worked—and they were long blocks, too. She glanced at the clock in the drugstore on the corner, and was relieved to see that it was only seven-thirty. There was still half an hour before she could go on duty.

She had a feeling that all was not well with her job. Whether it was due to guilt on her part or should be dismissed as a vague premonition, she did not know. But she could not deny that she was frightened.

"I've been absent four days," she said, appalled at the thought. "And how could I have done otherwise? Poor Angel—what would she have done without me? I had to stay home!"

Miss Larkin had left in a huff, as naturally she would, but not before she had spoken her piece. "She's your worry from now on, Mrs. Malone. The formulas are in the small suitcase. You'll have to work them out for yourself. You needn't count on getting any help from that glamorous daughter of yours. She don't know beans about babies. She's too busy being beautiful." She threw a scornful glance at Angel, adding, "I could tell you a few things that would make your hair curl, if I was a mind to."

HOW could she say such dreadful things about Angel? Poor Angel who was so crushed, and so wonderfully brave. It gave Martha a sense of satisfaction to remember that she'd said: "Stop it, Miss Larkin! I won't have you talking like that about my daughter. Have you no pity—no decency?"

Angel had burst into tears and sunk down into the nearest chair, but the infuriated Miss Larkin had had no pity on her. "That's right—cry," she had snapped. "I'll do you good, maybe. You ought to be thankful I don't sue you for bringing me here under false pretenses. You tell me it's a house in the suburbs we're coming to, with a room to myself and a day off a week. I believe you, because you're coming by plane. And what do I find? A dump in Brooklyn!" She snorted, then raised her voice and added by way of a final touch:

"A fine place to bring a baby. I must say. No sunlight, no air, no nothing. If she don't get sick and die on your hands—well, you can't say I didn't warn you. At least I'm not responsible."

Martha had opened her mouth to speak, but the reference to Baby Jeanne had frightened her into silence. She did not need Miss Larkin's grim warning to convince her that there was no place for a baby.

THE next three days had been more than hectic. As Miss Larkin had predicted, Martha had assumed full charge of Baby Jeanne. Too, there were formulas to prepare, clothes to wash, meals to cook—not to mention the thousand and one tasks that are necessary when an adult household must be reorganized to meet the needs of a young baby. Martha had gone about it cheerfully. Even to herself she would not acknowledge that she was tired, desperately tired.

"You don't get tired when you're doing things for people you love," she kept reminding herself over and over again. "At least, you aren't supposed to."

on the pillow. Her face was turned toward the wall and her slim young figure was shaking with sobs.

Martha ran over, buttoning her uniform as she did so, and put a hand on the girl's shoulder. The girl turned, and Martha recognized her at once as Elsa Rand, daughter of Silas Rand, plant's owner. Martha had never seen her at close range before, but the girl had been pointed out to her a number of times.

"So she can't take it. Then Louise was right," thought Martha, recalling Louise's remark when a few weeks before, the wealthy Elsa Rand and several of her friends had come to work at the plant. Louise had said, in her usual matter-of-fact way, "Just watch them fold up and quit—when they find out it's real work, not polite fad-waving."

Elsa stopped crying and turned to look at Martha. "I didn't know anyone was here," she said, wiping her eyes and obviously trying to pull herself together.

"I just came in," answered Martha. "I heard you crying. Isn't there something I can do for you, Miss Rand? I'm Mrs. Malone, the rest-room attendant. Perhaps I can help you."

The girl sat up and looked at her sharply. "So you're Mrs. Malone, are you?" Was there a scornful note in her voice? Martha couldn't be quite sure. But she was sure—quite sure—when Elsa added, drawing away:

"No, I'm afraid you can't do anything. Mrs. Malone, but fine—feathered daughter of yours has done enough—more than enough! She stood up, picked up her cap, took a compact out of her pocket, and ran into the lavatory.

MARTHA stepped back, as though she had been slapped in the face. What had Louise done to Elsa Rand that she should behave like this? Why, they didn't even know each other, didn't even work on the same shift. Perhaps Louise had said something that had gotten back to Elsa. Something about society girls who went into defense work just for a lark. Louise was like that—a little too frank and outspoken. She, Martha, would have to warn her to be more discreet.

She started to go back to her locker to put her street clothes away, then noticed the pile of papers on the floor by the couch where Elsa had been lying. She stooped over to pick up the litter, and saw that it was a page clipped from this morning's newspaper. The page containing Angel's pictures, and it had been torn into shreds. Martha gathered up the bits of paper and stuffed them into her uniform pocket.

"What does it mean?" she whispered. "Angel's beautiful pictures torn to shreds?"

It was not until she rose to her feet that she saw the picture of Jimmie. It had been carefully clipped out of the page and was lying half under the couch pillow where Elsa, in her haste to get away from Martha, had left it. Martha reached over and picked up the picture. It was sodden and damp.

"What does it mean?" Martha repeated. "Jimmie's picture carefully clipped out—and wet with another girl's tears?"

She stood motionless for a moment, trying to find the answer. Then the door opened and the girls from the graveyard shift began to file in. Hastily, she stuffed Jimmie's picture into her pocket, along with the mutilated pictures of Angel. There was no time to think now. It was eight o'clock and her working day had begun.
